CANOEING & KAYAKING

LEE TARTT NATURE PRESERVE

320 North Main St. / FB: @LeeTarttNaturePreserve

This Tupelo-cypress swamp was formed years ago by the meandering channel of the Yalobusha River. A meadow and mature hardwood forest surround the swamp and can be explored by foot rail. A boardwalk leads to the edge of the swamp next to a small boat slip.

MALMAISON WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT AREA MDWFP.com

This 9,483 acre WMA is as diverse and unique as any other public area in the state. State HWY 7 divides the WMA at the delta/hills interface in Grenada County. Roughly 800 acres of the WMA lies in the loess hills and the rest in the Yalobusha/ Mississippi River floodplain. McIntyre Scatters is a shallow swampy lake perfect for paddling and the western edge of the WMA and contains 500 to 600 acres open to the public.

TALLAHATCHIE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

www.FWS.gov/refuge/tallahatchie

Since these lands were acquired by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1,300 acres have been reforested with native hardwood species. The refuge's largest unity is a patchwork of old fields and scattered hardwood forests bisected by the meandering Tipwork Bayou.

YALOBUSHA RIVER PADDLING TRAIL

www.LowerDelta.org/paddling-trails / www.MississippiPaddle.com

The 520 mile Yalobusha River Trail flows through the loess bluffs into the lush bottomland forest of Malmaison Wildlife Management Area (MWMA), past the swampy sloughs and crop lands of the Yazoo River basin and into the heart of Greenwood. Put in at Grenada Lake, downtown Grenada, Holcomb or MWMA.
